ON THE FIELD OF BATTLE

Writer Tells of the Various Distances at Which Bodies of Men Can Be Distinguished.

Some of the enterprising correspondents have been writing some wonderful tales from alleged interviews with wounded men and others in the European war, says the Army and Navy Journal. One of the best of these gossamer tales of troops aiming their rifles at the enemy one mile away and using the buttons on the coat as an aiming point, in order to make hits more certain. The following facts may be useful in throwing a little light on the yarn. Men of ordinary sight and under ordinary conditions of air and light can distinguish troops as follows: At 100 yards all the parts of a man's body are seen distinctly, including the general lines of the face; slight movements are perceptible; the minutest details of the uniform, such as buttons, may be counted. At 200 yards the outlines of the face are confused and the rows of buttons are invisible, but the color of the facings, especially if bright, is still apparent. At 400 yards the face is a mere dot, but all movements of the legs and arms are still distinct. At 600 yards the movements of the arms are still perceptible. At 800 yards all details disappear. If the light be strong, however, the files of a squad can be counted, and individual movements may be distinguished. At 800 yards the men cannot be counted and individual movements are indistinguishable. At 1,000 yards a file of men resembles a broad line, the uniform width of which is broken above by the line of heads and below by the line of legs.

RUINED BY FUNERAL COSTS

Costly Rites Practiced by the Maoris Meet With Disapproval of the Government.

An appeal to the government of New Zealand to represent to the Maoris the manifold advantages of a pakeha (white man's funeral) over the expensive "tangi"—a native one—is contemplated as the result of the serious effect of one of these trying but picturesque ceremonies in the North Island. One Pango Raumawa and his brother took up 90 acres of land at a place called Rata, put up a house and a milk shed, and invested in 30 cows, then set about clearing the place, which was in heavy scrub. After much labor they succeeded in bringing the best part of the section into a state of productivity. They had milked for three years, and were the earners of a comfortable little income, when Pango's brother died. As is usual, a monster "tangi" was convened, and it cost Pango over one thousand dollars. On top of this the father passed away, leaving many creditors. Pango was forced to clear this off also. He then discovered that he was ruined. Taking heart again, he went to another place and started afresh. There, in time, he was able to invest in 15 cows, and in every way again proved his energy and industry. Recently, however, a Maori child belonging to the little community died, and a big "tangi" has been arranged, the expense of which will fall upon the same unfortunate native.

Action on State Laws.

In various suits during the past year the constitutionality of a number of state laws was challenged, laws of Georgia and Mississippi attempting to provide a form of enforcement of the contract of employment under certain conditions being declared void, as was a law of Illinois forbidding the use of emery wheels, etc., for polishing processes in basements, without reference to the actual conditions as to ventilation, and one of Louisiana limiting the hours of labor of certain classes of stationary engineers. All these laws were held to attempt unjustifiable discriminations.

The state of Mississippi still stands alone with a law regulating the hours of labor of factory workers without regard to sex. This law, which was last year declared constitutional, was again upheld, as was the ten-hour law of Illinois for women, the city of Chicago being mulcted for its violation.

Electrical Safety Rules.

The bureau of standards has been making a study of safety rules and practices in the construction, installation and maintenance of electrical equipment, and has found that such companies as do have safety rules have based them on limited and inadequate experiences, while many companies have no rules because of the expense and difficulty of preparing them and because they are not compelled to take precautionary measures by the state authorities. Accordingly the bureau has prepared a set of rules based on a thorough study, with the aid and advice of state commissions, companies employing electrical equipment and workmen. The rules are published in circular No. 49—Scientific American.

Premier British Regiment.

The Grenadier Guards, in which the Prince of Wales now holds a commission, is the premier regiment of the Foot Guards, though it is not, of course, the oldest, an honor claimed by the Coldstreamers. The grenadiers, however, have been in existence for just over two centuries and a half, having been formed as a bodyguard for Charles II. The regiment has the king as its colonel-in-chief, while the duke of Connaught is its colonel.

SAVES DAUGHTER

Advice of Mother no Doubt Prevents Daughter's Untimely End.

Ready, Ky.—"I was not able to do anything for nearly six months," writes Mrs. Laura Bratcher, of this place, "and was down in bed for three months. I cannot tell you how I suffered with my head, and with nervousness and womanly troubles."

Our family doctor told my husband he could not do me any good, and he had to give it up. We tried another doctor, but he did not help me.

At last, my mother advised me to take Cardui, the woman's tonic. I thought it was no use for I was nearly dead and nothing seemed to do me any good. But I took eleven bottles, and now I am able to do all of my work and my own washing.

I think Cardui is the best medicine in the world. My weight has increased, and I look the picture of health."

If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, get a bottle of Cardui today. Delay is dangerous. We know it will help you, for it has helped so many thousands of other weak women in the past 50 years.

PRETTIEST DIVORCEE WILL WED ONCE MORE

MRS. BLANCHE BERUS NOT DISMAYED BY FAILURE IN FIRST VENTURE

New York, Dec. 31.—Today is the wedding day of New York's "prettiest divorcee," Mrs. Blanche Velerb Wolff Berus, who, unless her plans go awry, will become the bride of Matthew Hanson of Grand Rapids, Mich. Mrs. Berus made the announcement several weeks ago, and selected the Rev. Dr. Eisman to perform the ceremony. She has chosen for her attendants her sister, Miss Hortense Wolff, her cousin, Miss Emily Wolff, Miss Hulda Hanson and Mrs. R. V. Scheyer. The best man is to be J. A. Sheyer of Chicago.

The announcement of the wedding plans brought forth varying stories of the newest love affair of the "prettiest divorcee." Mr. Hanson, although admitting she was "the prettiest girl in New York," denied she is a divorcee or was ever married. His bride-to-be, however, stated to the newspaper men: "I want it made clear that I did not even know Mr. Hanson at the time of my divorce. I had hoped that this announcement might not become public until after the wedding. I am only 23. The marriage will take place on New Year's eve at my father's home here. I am going to have a real wedding this time. Yes, my former marriage was an elopement, but this time everything is vastly different." Mr. Hanson has presented me a beautiful home on Vine street in Grand Rapids, as a wedding gift. We are to spend our honeymoon at Palm Beach, where he has a bungalow."

WHISKER CROP THREATENED

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 13.—From indications today, Georgia will raise a record crop of whiskers during the coming year. An increased acreage is threatened, the reverse of the cotton crop theories. Red, black, gray and white growths will protrude into the Georgia breeze unless the barbers of the state can be induced to equip themselves for business. The alarming outlook is occasioned by the failure of the tonsorial artists to get registered. For in order to ply the shears and razor in this state, it becomes necessary after today to take out a license. Somebody thought it would be a good scheme to enact a "better barber" law. It was passed, and now the mowers of facial lawns will be fined from $10 to $50 if found operating without a license. Up to date only 20 per cent of the barbers of the state have gone after their licenses. In addition to paying for his license, each applicant will have to demonstrate his ability, beginning the new year.

"They thoroughly cleansed my system and I felt like a new man—light and free. They are the best medicine I have ever taken for constipation. They keep the stomach sweet, liver active, bowels regular." O. G. Schaefer and Red Cross Drug Store—Adv.

SLEEP TO AVOID EXHAUSTION

Theory of Swiss Physiologist Seems to Fit into the Common Sense View of the Matter.

Most of us believe we sleep because we are exhausted. But Doctor Claparede, Swiss physiologist, advanced a new theory, which is to the effect that we sleep to avoid being exhausted. The theory is that sleep, instead of being the result of fatigue, is an impulsive self-defense which the body conducts in order to get rid of the waste products before they have time to produce exhaustion.

Just as combustion of fuel for the production of heat and energy always is attended by ashes and slag, so the slow combustion which produces heat and energy in the body likewise is attended by waste.

"Since the senses never voluntarily come to rest or shut themselves off from the outer world, a point eventually would be reached when the organism would perish as a victim of general nerve exhaustion. In order to hinder this nature arranges betimes, i. e., before exhaustion can seriously injure the organism, to get in motion that opposition current we term sleep."

The sight-endowed animal tends to take its sleep at night, since the stimuli which govern the animal's vital activities are then cut off. For animals endowed with other special senses, but not with sight, the night is not so great a factor. These can only blockade stimuli to the senses either by creeping into some secluded spot or by the action of nature in causing an opportune production of a substance (a sort of hormone) which acts as an obstacle by entering the nerve path and deadening sensibility.

HAD NO USE FOR COWARDS

Soldiers of the Middle Ages Drastically Punished Cowards Who Showed White Feather.

Punishment for cowards in the German army at the time of the Thirty Years' war was so severe as to be ferocious. In the year 1642 the Swedish General Torstensson stormed Leipzig. A force under the command of the Grand Duke Leopold gave him battle before the gates of the city, but during the engagement the Madonische regiment became suddenly panic-stricken and fled.

Punishment immediately followed. When the regiment had again assembled, six other regiments surrounded it, and tried it by court-martial in the open field. The verdict was that the colonel and the captains should die by the sword, and that every tenth man among the noncommissioned officers and men should be hanged.

The stern verdict was carried out to the letter, except that at the request of Leopold the men were shot. Instead of hangings, Col. George Madonische was beheaded, after he had sought in vain for a pardon. The survivors were consigned to quarters with other commands, and the regiment never regained its name or former prestige. In those days, there was no alternative but to be brave. Cowardice meant either death or everlasting disgrace.—Youth's Companion.

Disgusted Dog.

In a certain house there was a very fine baby and also a very fine dog. They were much attached to each other, and the only thing that marred their pleasure was baby's daily bath. During this proceeding baby always howled himself black and blue, and the dog, out of sympathy, crouched in the corner and moaned. After a month or two of this daily anguish the dog devised a scheme to stop it. One day, while baby was howling as usual, the dog came marching into the room carrying a rattle in his mouth, and standing by the tub, shook his head—and the rattle—vigorously. Baby actually stopped crying a minute to see what this unusual proceeding meant, but then began again with extra power. The dog dropped the rattle with a disgusted air, and after that day, always managed to be out of the house during the baby's bath.

Spanish Royal Bodyguard.

The Spanish royal family has an especial and historic bodyguard to prevent such intrusions as that which has occurred at Buckingham palace at London. For centuries the Monarchs, who must be natives of the town of Espinosa and have served with honor in the army, have had the exclusive privilege of guarding the royal palaces by night. In their historic costume and wearing felt shoes they take up their posts at midnight outside the rooms of the king, queen and other royalists, while detachments patrol the halls and corridors all night long. They speak no word, acknowledging each other's presence by sign and countersign. In the morning they disappear as silently, giving place to the ordinary sentries and attendants.

How to Feed Boy After School.

The Woman's Home Companion has a department called "The Exchange"—a department full of helpful ideas contributed by readers for the benefit of others. A Massachusetts woman makes the following suggestion:

"A friend of mine, who has three hungry boys of different ages who come home from school clamoring for 'something to eat,' has devised this scheme to keep them out of the pantry: She has three boxes plainly lettered with their names, and after luncheon she fills each with whatever is best for that particular boy."

Best For Kidneys—Says Doctor Dr. J. T. R. Neal, Greenville, So. Car., says that in his 30 years of experience he has found no preparation for the kidneys equal to Foley Kidney Pills. In 50c and $1.00 sizes. Best you can buy for backache, rheumatism, kidney and bladder ailments. O. G. Schaefer and Red Cross Drug Store.—Adv.

SAFE AND SANE IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Dec. 31.—Safe and sane is the rule which Mayor Harrison plans to enforce tonight for the New Year's revel. All noisemakers are barred from the streets, and the sale of liquor is barred after 1 a. m. Five dances will be run by the municipal government, to rival the usual rough and tumble affairs. Mrs. Leonora M. Mader, superintendent of the department of public welfare, will furnish extra programs for the municipal dances, including vaudeville and professional singers.

Checks Croup Instantly You know croup is dangerous. And you ought to know too, the sense of security that comes from having Foley's Honey and Tar Compound in the house. It cuts the thick mucus and clears away the phlegm, stops the strangling cough and gives easy breathing and quiet sleep. Every user is a friend. O. G. Schaefer and Red Cross Drug Store.—Adv.
